Lourdes is a town of about 9000 inhabitants in the department of Hautes-Pyrenees, France. Beautifully situated among mountainous scenery, it is annually the goal of many pious Roman Catholics, who make a pilgrimage here to worship before the shrine of "Notre Dame de Lourdes". The spot is rendered sacred by the reputed appearance in 1858 of the Virgin Mary, to a girl of thirteen, Bernardette Soubirous, and a spring here is supposed to possess healing powers.
